

MEET BETTY

Presented by the Craneway Pavilion

Rosie the Riveter's "We can do it!" poster famously represents the ideal attitude of World War II workers on the Home Front. In this private tour, the renowned Betty Soskin explains the complex role marginalized populations played during WWII. At 92, Betty is the oldest national park ranger in the United States, and her stories of unity in the face of adversity will teach the cooperation and sensitivity needed to unite diverse backgrounds.

REMEMBER

Located at the historic Oil House of the 1930's Ford Assembly Building, the Rosie the Riveter Visitor Education Center will enrich, inspire and empower your team during your private tour

EMPOWER

With new production techniques, workers could build one Liberty Ship in merely 45 days, on average. Learn about the innovative spirit fueling this ship building to help imagine what we can do together, today.

The Craneway Rosie Package offers customized activities and prices that fit the needs of your company.

Disclaimer: Package must be booked based on Betty's availability.
